This has gone far enough! This is nothing but a bunch of Pirates who knew about computers before the government did and used their advantage to take the money and stifle software development! They sell buggy software and provide no refund if it will not work and no customer service! I have their Millennium Edition and it has never worked. I'm sure I could spend about 20 hours and get it to work but why should I have to work on something I bought on good faith that it would work. If you want to understand how this company operates Look into Millennium edition. They put this OS out just for a payday to keep the stock from crashing and to hell with whoever bought it!!!!
